Saratoga.

The Real Fight Will Be for Lieutenant-Governor.

Col. Cruger Said to Have the Best Chance,

28.—Saratoga was crowned with Republican politicians this morning. All the rooms in the hotels not occupied by regular summer boarders were taken by the more or less jubihe finished to night.

They seem to be short of money, and those of them who thought they needed liquid refreshments patronized the places where beer is sold on draught.

All the storekeepers, hotel men, saloonkeepers, hackmen, hall-boys, bootblacks and sporting men groan because a Democratic convention is not in progress, and say that if the Tammany and County Democracy people were here there would be plenty of money in

A visiting Warner Miller Club solemnly paraded through Broadway this morning and became mixed up with a funeral procession. When the Democrats saw the hearse they made such remarks as: "What's that; that's what they will do with Warner Miller in No-vember," and "That's what the Republicans will need on election day."

HEADQUARTERS NOT CROWDED. The headquarters of the State Committee in Congress Hall was not overcrowded, but the corridors and the piazzas of the hotel were packed with gentlemen from all parts of this State, who exchange nods and winks and who smoked cheap cigars.

Mayor C. A. Parsons, who is serving his seventh term as Mayor of Rochester, and who is a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, seemed somewhat disturbed over the candidacy of Col. S. V. R. Cruger, of New York.

Congressman John B. Weber, of Buffalo, who is also a candidate for Lieutenant-Gov-ernor, was bold and defiant, and his friends said that he could lick any man from New York.

Col. Edward A. McAlpin, of Sing Sing, was calm and peaceful, and ex-Congressman Edward E. Einstein, of New York, was very gloomy. They were both candidates last night. They scarcely knew what they were

this morning.
Ex-Senator Edmund L. Pitts, of Orleans, had a sneaking suspicion that he might crawl in and capture the alleged prize.

THE REAL FIGHT.

Shortly before noon the delegates began to wander into the building. They had slowly filed by the Hathorn and Hamilton springs, but did not stop to quench their thirst.

Among the distinguished Democrats who secured front seats in the gallery were ex-Sachem Edward Kearney, ex-Register John Reilly, ex-President of the Board of Aldermen Adolph L. Sanger, John J. Scanneil, Police Justices Henry Marray and Daniel O'Reilly and Pat Sheedy, of New York.

The platform was beautiful with flowers, and the smiling faces of Senators Evarts and Hiscock, Assemblymen James W. Husted and Christopher C. Shayne, the President of the American Fur-Dealers' Association. There was a necessity for overcoats in the building, and the hat tickets for them rattled in the trousers pockets of some of the gentlemen from New York.

The majority of the delegates danced in the building while a band of musicians in a corner played lively airs. REGINNING TO ASSEMBLE

At noon Acting Chairman of the State Committee Gen. John N. Knapp "called the convention to order, and introduced the Rev. S. V. Leech, ex-Chaplain of the Senate, who delivered the prayer. Gen. Knapp then presented Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, of Brooklyn, as the Temporary Chairman.

Among those who nodded their approval were Speaker Fremont Cole, Miles O'Brien, the boss of Albany; Gen. N. M. Curtis, James S. T. Stranshan. Bald Eagle Husted, William H. Townley. Senator Cornelius Van Cott. Clarence W. Meade and Editor Elliott F. Shepard.

JOHNNY O'BRIEN KICKING.

It became noised about that the only kickers in the New York delegation against Col. Cruger were Johnny O'Brien and the delegates from his district. O'Brien came here to kick, and is kicking everybody but himself

When the call of the roll was ordered Gen.

Morton Glee Club, of Malone, sang some songs, which made the New York delegates dizzy.

The name of Blaine popped out in one of the songs, and the delegates shrieked with delight. Then Gen. Curtis called for three cheers for Harrison and Morton, but the cheers for Blaine had worn out the delegates and the cheers for Harrison and Morton were rather weak.

and the cheers for Harrison and Morton were rather weak.

The band of musicians were then called upon to do a little work, and they rattled through the national airs.
Editor Elliott F. Shepard, of New York, and D. E. Ainsworth, of Oswego, who had escorted Gen. Tracy to the Chairmau's desk, telt very proud when the Temporary Chairman began his address.

Gen. Tracy read his address from a large roll of manuscript. It was the usual set speech, giving a history of the war and showing that the Republican party saved the nation.

Ing that the Republican party saved the nation.

When he dived in statistics the delegation in the rear seats began to moan. The General's voice was weak, and he reads very slowly.

It was very evident as he was proceeding that he was creating a bad impression, and when he had concluded sighs of relief were heard in all parts of the building.

At 1.40 the General had finished his address.

The convention took a recess until 4 P. M.

EXPERIMENT AT SUICIDE. Caroline Hayes Tries Hanging at the Elizabeth Street Station-House. Caroline Hayes, forty years of age, was arrested by Patrolman Granville, of the Elizabeth street station, at 8.50 last evening in the vicinity of the stale beer dives in Mulberry street. She is a "rounder," with no home, and was in a state of beastly intoxication.

Shortly before midnight Doorman Nesbit saw her in her cell with a piece of rag about her neck. He reported this circumstance to the Sergeant at the desk, who told him to watch the woman closely.

Returning to the cell he found her hanging to the door by a rag which she had torn from her petticoat.

She was immediately cut down and an ambulance from the Chambers Street Hospital she was immediately cut down and an am-bulance from the Chambers Street Hospital summoned. When it arrived the ambulance surgeon said that there was nothing the mat-ter with the woman and refused to take her. Caroline was held in default of $500 by Justice Powers in the Tombs this morning on the charge of attempted suicide.

JERSEY CITY NEWS.

A Broken Knife-Blade Leads to Bookkeeper Anderson's Arrest for Robbery.

C. R. Anderson, thirty years old, was employed by J. F. Sadler & Co., wholesale butchers at the abattoir foot of Sixth street, Jersey City, as a bookkeeper, but was discharged a few days ago. On Sunday following the safe was robbed of $65, which was taken from the inside drawer by some one, they allege, who must have had the combina-thon.

Detective William Dalton, of the Central Office, found that the drawar was not unlocked, but had been pried open with a knife blade, a portion of which remained in the drawer.

After a long hunt Dalton found Anderson and arrested him on suspicion. He had a knife in his pocket with one blade broken.

Judge Stilsing to-day held him for examination.

Rich Diamonds Bestowed by a Rich Man on a Circle of Richly Appreciative Friends-Capt. Pike Got a Share Be-eause He Was a Friend of Joe Coburn-The Denor Is New Resting Out.

Since 8 o'clock this morning nothing has been talked of in the corridors of the Hoffman, Fifth Avenue and the Gilsey but the generosity of Millionaire George Law to his Saratoga friends,

The despatches from the Spa in the morning papers were eagerly read by Mr. Law's many friends, and in the "White Elephant" everybody seemed to be wondering what the horse railroad magnate would do next,

An Evening World reporter called at 259 Fifth avenue, where Mr. Law's sister resides, was met at the door by a female servant, who remarked very solemnly that Mr. Law wasn't there and that it was herself and his poor sister who would like to know where he was. He went away two weeks ago and not a word had anybody at

The lips of the affectionate girl quivered and in the corner of her left eye glistened a tear drop. She could give no information vicinity of the stale beer dives in Mulberry as to Mr. Law's whereabouts, and no one in the house seemed to know when he would of the Ninth Avenue Surface Railway, where the champion generous man is usually to be found, but, strangely enough, none of the clerks appeared to know anything about Mr. Law or his movements. The stablemen and drivers had read the story of their employer's liberality, and they talked very guardedly about the matter.

"In my min!," said a big, raw-bened Irishmau who gets $2 for driving a bobtail car anywhere from ten to twelve hours out of the twenty-four, "Mr. Law'd be a — sight better off if he'd increase the pay of his men, so that they might live in decency, instead of throwing away his money after that style."

And this driver, in his decidedly expressive speech, seemed to voice the sentiments of all of the employees.

Jack Parker, a well-known bookmaker who is acquainted with every sporting man in the East, was immensely tickled when he read of Law's cavortings, and what pleased him most was the idea of "Cap" McCue wearing two diamond rings.

"Why," sud he, "McCue won't have that jewelry three days."

A number of other knights of the chalk and blackboard expressed great surprise at Law's generosity, and every one of them is anxious to see the lucky sports when they get back from Sarstoga.

The reporter saw Joe Coburn and Capt. Pike, two of the recipients of Mr. Law's bonnty, this afternoon. The latter was the manager of the Texan cowbov pianist.

On Joe's finger glittered a superb solitaire, and on that of Capt. Pike was an emeraid surrounded with diamonds while in the Captrin's scarf was a crescent of diamonds and

So I got him off with his man all rights."

Capt. Pike wears his hair in something of Buffalo Bill's fashion. He is a small man with dark complexion. He said to the reporter: "There was some exaggeration in the morning accounts. Law didn't give me any ten-thousand-dollar check. I don't believe he carries his check-book around with him. He was perfectly sober when he made the presents to us. "Nobody asked George Law for anything. They speak as if we bled him. It was nothing of the kind. George Law is, I think, the most generous man in the world. He never regrets what he gives. We were sitting there together sociably when Jacob Dreicer, the jeweller, who has a store in the hotel, came in and going up to Mr. Law said: 'I'd like to sell you some diamonds, Mr. Law.'

"Mr. Law said to him: 'Bring me in $8,000 worth of diamonds. I want to make some presents to my friends here as souvenirs.' The Great Kilrain Not Uproariously Welcomed at the " Hub."

IRPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. Boston, Aug. 28.—Although the advent of the fistic Jake Kilrain had been heralded in the " Hub" there was very little attempt at any kind of a display in appreciation of the gallant battle the Bradford carsman gave Jem Smith, the English champion. There was no crowd of hangers-on awaiting his arrival.

The party that stepped off the 8.30 boat train in the Old Colony Depot were Jake, his wife, child, little Johnny Murphy and Mr. Moore, of New Bedford. They lost very little time in getting comfortably stored away in one of the depot carriages and started for the Lowell Depot on Causeway street, where a train was taken for Somerville. Jake will spend a few days with his wife's parents at the latter place.

CONDUCTORS NEXT.

The Twenty-third Street Railway Cars Must Have Them.

Ordinance That Says So.

Arrest for Manslaughter Also In Store for the Road's Directors.

Mayor Hewitt has signed the ordinance which abolishes the bobtail car on Twentythird street and requires the employment of conductors by the Twenty-third Street Railway Company.

Capt. Twomey, Clerk of the Board of Aldermen, received and filed this approved bit of legislation to day.

The Mayor also sent to the Board of Aldermen, for a reading at its meeting at 1 p. M., a message suggesting additional legislation regarding the bobtail-car nuisance.

In his message Mayor Hewitt says that fifty new cars will be required to equip the road, and that he thinks that that number can be provided not before Dec. 1.

He says that he is satisfied that the Twenty-third Street Railway Company is now acting in good faith, Notwithstanding its unwillingness in the past to meet the just demands of public opinion, the Mayor believes it now desirons to provide cars of a safe and commodings character.

ous character.

He recommends that the time limited for the ordinance to take effect be extended till Dec. 1. Arguing for this extension of time the Arguing for this extension of time the Mayor says:

Inasmuch as this subject has attracted wide attention and the power of the Common Council to pass the ordinance has been questioned, I submitted the question of legality to the Counsel for the Corperation, whose opinion I herewith submit, not only in order that the records may be made complete and the power of the Common Council to pass the ordinance in question be made clear, but to call attention to the fact that the validity of the ordinance rests upon its being reasonable in character; and hence the evident propriety of extending the time for the substitution of cars with conductors long enough to enable the company to procure the necessary ventous. If an extension of ninety days he thus given it seems to me clear that the courts would hold that the ordinance was entirely reasonable in its demands, and that the company could not allege the want of alequate time as a justification for further delay.

On motion of Alderman Mooney the

On notion of Alderman Mooney the Mayor's recommendation was adopted. In addition/to this predicament, members of the directory of the Twenty-third Street (Jigger) Railway Company are now liable to be arrested at any moment for another cause. They will be apprehended on warrants issued by Coroner Messemer charging them with manslaughter in causing the death of Mrs. Sophia Levy, who was run over and killed near Eighth avenue, July 10, by one of their bobtail cars.

killed near Eighth avenue, July 10, by one of their bobtail cars.

Although it is several days since Supreme Court Justice Patterson dissolved the temporary injunction which prevented the Coroner from performing his duty by filing the result of his inquisition, he has refrained from arraigning the bobtail railway magnates until he should be fully informed as to his powers in the premises.

So many legal stumbling-blocks had been interposed by the corporation's lawyers to prevent the performance of their duty by the Coroner and his jury that Coroner Messemer, although the Court has determined that his position throughout the inquest has been legal and proper, determined to adopt the motto of Davy Crockett: "Be sure you're right, then go shead."

right, then go ahead."

The jury in the Levy inquest returned a verdict holding the directors of the Twenty-third Street Railway responsible for the poor woman's death, but did not, in terms, declare them guilty of manishaughter, although the railway system which they maintain was characterized as a nuisance which should be abelished.

Not desiring to fight any more dilatory not dearing to ngm any more chatory motions in the courts, or to listen to the un-called-for vituperative speeches of Col. Den-ison, the Coroner sought the advice of Cor-poration Counsel Beckman as to his right to arrest the directors of the company under arrest the directors of the company under the finding of the jury.

That official has given his opinion main-taining the Coroner's right, and these officials will undoubtedly be arraigned, charged with manslaughter, and put under bonds for trial.

Alderman Benjamin at to-day's meeting in-troduced a resolution requiring the employ-ment of conductors on the bobtail cars of the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery Railway Company, which are run on Canal street and Company, which are run on Canal street and Avenue D. It was referred to the Railroad Committee, on motion of Alderman Joseph Murray.
